Human Rights and EU Crisis Management Operations: A Duty to Respect and to Protect?

A multi-panel workshop organized by CLEER in cooperation with the Universities of Exeter and Twente discussed issues of human rights law in EU military and civilian crisis management missions on 25 May 2012 at the T.M.C. Asser Instituut.

Academics, practitioners from the Dutch Ministry of Defence, EU institutions, the EU-LEX mission in Kosovo, and international criminal tribunals shared views on the legal framework governing the protection and promotion of and the duty to respect human rights in EU missions. The keynote address on the main challenges of human rights protection was delivered by Dr.

Hadewych Hazelzet, Head of Section, Division of CSDP Policy, Partnership and Agreements/Crisis Management and Planning Directorate, EEAS. The conference was sponsored by the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen (KNAW). The presentations of the workshop will be published in the Centre's Working Papers series.

Trade liberalisation and standardisation—new directions in the 'low politics' of EU foreign policy

This seminar co-organized by the European University Institute (EUI) and CLEER brought together leading academics and practitioners to explore whether and to what extent trade liberalisation and harmonisation can be regarded as successful 'low-politics' areas in EU foreign policy and what the challenges are that the EU is and will be facing in these areas. The discussion focused on (i) the legal and policy objectives that the EU applies in its preferential trade arrangements; (ii) the role of and applied practices in the Union's efforts to promote standardisation within the WTO and with regard some particularly important trade partners, such as the US and China; and (iii) challenges and EU strategies for reconciliatory efforts in investment.

The keynote address was delivered by Mr Robert Sturdy MEP member of the INTA Committee.

The papers of the conference will be published in an edited volume both in EUI's and CLEER's working papers series.
