

30 June - 4 July 2014
The Hague

Summer Programme on International Sports Law: Is Sport Playing by the Rule of Law?

The Asser International Sports Law Centre provides a week-long educational programme in The Hague for practitioners who are engaged in the area of sports law and those interested in sports law related topics.

Are you a legal practitioner, working for a sport organisation, or just interested in the practice of sports law ?

Register now for this unique educational and networking opportunity!

The programme is a combination of in-depth presentations and practical workshops and kicks off with general review of foundational topics followed by more advanced, in-depth coverage of important sports law topics (e.g., CAS, application of EU law, fundamental rights, dispute resolution, commercialization of sports), international sports organizations and regulations (e.g., FIFA, WADA, financial fair play, governance), and national practices (e.g., Australia, Japan, North America). Other issues such as mega events, Olympics, and taxation will also be addressed during the programme.

Fee: € 1195,-

Registration: www.asser.nl/SPISL

Contact: educationtraining@asser.nl

www.asser.nl/summerprogrammes