

Summer Programme on International Sports Law:

Is Sport Playing by the Rule of Law?

30 June - 4 July 2014, The Hague

Organised by the Asser International Sports Law Centre

INTERNATIONAL SPORTS LAW

Twenty years ago the concept of “Sports Law” would have been foreign to most. Today, it is far more widely recognised as an established field of legal scholarship and practice. As a corollary to the growing commercialisation, professionalisation, and globalisation of sport, athletes, sports clubs, and organisations’ run-ins with the law have not only become more frequent, but also more apparent. While the autonomy of sport may have been once an effective defence against “outside” legal interference, the sports world increasingly has come to accept that its autonomy is constrained by the rule of law and preconditioned on e.g. principles of good governance. Sports governing bodies also realise that they are unable to deal with various threats and challenges alone: e.g. doping, match-fixing, and other types of fraud. The burgeoning sports-oriented workload of courts (e.g. Court of Justice of the EU, Swiss Supreme Court) and disciplinary and arbitral tribunals (e.g. FIFA DRC, Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS)) has had a significant impact on sports law as an academic field and helped contribute to its establishment as a global field of private practice.

PROGRAMME

The Asser International Sports Law Centre provides a week-long educational programme (30 June – 4 July, 2014) in The Hague led by a number of internationally renowned sports law experts (i.e. academics, practitioners, public officials etc.).

The programme includes a combination of lectures and workshops that will provide both a general knowledge of the legal principles at play and a practical experience of the legal reality on the ground.

Sports Dispute Resolution

- Disciplinary and doping sanctions
- Arbitral awards (e.g. CAS)

Sports Organisers' commercial rights & obligations

- (New) Media rights and image rights
- Competition law issues
- Mega events/ Ambush marketing
- Taxation

Sports Corruption

- Sports Fraud – match-fixing, money laundering, etc.
- Sports Betting: regulation and monitoring
- Doping (WADA 2015)

Sports & Sustainable funding

- Financial solidarity and competitive balance
- Financial fair play
- Third-party investment

Sports Governance

- Good Governance Principles and Sports organisations
- Stakeholders Involvement

Athletes Rights

- EU Free Movement for Athletes
- Collective Bargaining in Sport

The Summer Programme will be led by a number of internationally renowned sports law experts, academics, practitioners, arbitrators and public officials. Last year's speakers included amongst others Prof. Dr. Jack Anderson (Queen's University Belfast), Prof. Dr. Antonio Rigozzi (University of Neuchâtel and Partner at Lévy Kaufmann-Kohler), Roberto Branco Martins (University of Amsterdam and Director of Pro Agent), Dr. Leanne O'Leary (Edge Hill University), Prof. Dr. Karolina Tetlak (Warsaw University), Prof. Dr. Ben Van Rompuy (Asser International Sports Law Centre and Vrije Universiteit Brussel), and Prof. Dr. Michele Collucci (European College of Parma and attorney).

The programme structure is designed to engage participants offering valuable networking opportunities and to create an enjoyable and educational experience.

TARGET AUDIENCE

The primary audience for the Summer Programme is qualified attorneys, policy-makers, and representatives of sports organisations but also advanced students (e.g. LL.M., Ph.D.) who wish to pursue a career in the field of sports law.

Because the Summer Programme brings together both academic and practitioner point of view it will appeal to all who are interested in the area of sports law.

The Summer Programme covers the full scope of sports law related topics and its engaging workshops facilitate the continued building of skills. Even those with practical and/or academic knowledge of sports law will benefit from this course as they will be presented with the latest issues discussed by experts in the field of sports law.

“Absolutely great, whether you are a legal practitioner or working for a sports organisation.”
