CJEU CASES CONCERNING THE PROVISIONS OF THE BRUSSELS IIBIS REGULATION (2201/2003)

CASE	PROVISION(S) CONCERNED	QUESTION(S) REFERRED TO THE COURT	RULING	LINK TO THE CASE
C-435/06 C. [2007] ECR I-10141	BIlbis Articles 1(1), 1(2)(d), 64(2), 72	apply, in a case such as the present, to the enforcement of a public law decision in connection with child welfare, relating to the immediate taking into care of a child and his or her placement in a foster family outside the home, taken as a single decision, in its entirety;  (b) or solely to that part of the decision relating to placement outside the home in a foster family, having regard to the provision in Article 1(2)(d) of the regulation;  (c) and, in the latter case, is Regulation [No 2201/2003] applicable to a decision on placement contained in one on taking into care, even if the latter decision, on which the placement decision is dependent, is itself subject to legislation, based on the mutual recognition and enforcement of judgments and administrative decisions that has been harmonised in cooperation between the Member States concerned?  (2) If the answer to Question 1(a) is in the affirmative, is it possible, given that Regulation [No 2201/2003] takes no account of the legislation harmonised by the Nordic Council on the recognition and enforcement of public law decisions on placement, as described above, but solely of a corresponding private law convention, nevertheless to apply this harmonised legislation based on the direct recognition and enforcement	'1. Article 1(1) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, as amended by Council Regulation (EC) No 2116/2004 of 2 December 2004, is to be interpreted to the effect that a single decision ordering a child to be taken into care and placed outside his original home in a foster family is covered by the term 'civil matters' for the purposes of that provision, where that decision was adopted in the context of public law rules relating to child protection.  2. Regulation No 2201/2003, as amended by Regulation No 2116/2004, is to be interpreted as meaning that harmonised national legislation on the recognition and enforcement of administrative decisions on the taking into care and placement of persons, adopted in the context of Nordic Cooperation, may not be applied to a decision to take a child into care that falls within the scope of that regulation.  3. Subject to the factual assessment which is a matter for the national court alone, Regulation No 2201/2003, as amended by Regulation No 2116/2004, is to be interpreted as applying ratione temporis in a case such as that in the main proceedings.'	link

C-68/07 Kerstin Sundelind Lopez v Miguel Enrique Lopez Lizazo [2007] ECR I- 10403	BIIbis Articles 3, 6, 7	of administrative decisions as a form of cooperation between administrative authorities to the taking into care of a child?  (3) If the answer to Question 1(a) is in the affirmative and that to Question 2 is in the negative, does Regulation [No 2201/2003] apply ratio temporis to a case, taking account of Articles 72 and 64(2) of [R]egulation [No 2201/2003] and the abovementioned harmonised Nordic legislation on public law decisions on taking into care, if in Sweden the administrative authorities took their decision both on immediate taking into care and on placement with a foster family on 23 February 2005 and submitted their decision on immediate taking into care to the Länsrätt for confirmation on 25 February 2005, and that court accordingly confirmed the decision on 3 March 2005?'  "Where the respondent in a case concerning divorce is neither resident in a Member State nor a citizen of a Member State, may the case be heard by a court in a Member State which does not have jurisdiction under Article 3 [of Regulation No 2201/2003], even though a court in another Member State may have jurisdiction by application of one of the rules on jurisdiction set out in Article 3?'	be interpreted as meaning that where, in divorce proceedings, a respondent is not habitually resident in a Member State and is not a national of a Member State, the courts of a Member State cannot base their jurisdiction to hear the petition on their national law, if the courts of another Member	link cannot base their jurisdiction to hear the petition on

C-195/08 PPU Inga Rinau [2008] ECR I-5271

BIIbis Articles 11(8), 21, 21(3), 23, 24, 31(1), 40(2), 42

- '1. Can an interested party within the meaning of Article 21 of [the Regulation] apply for non-recognition of a judicial decision if no application has been submitted for recognition of that decision?
- 2. If the answer to Question 1 is in the affirmative: how is a national court, when examining an application for non-recognition of a decision brought by a person against whom that decision is to be enforced, to apply Article 31(1) of [the Regulation], which states that '... [n]either the person against whom enforcement is sought, nor the child shall, at this stage of the proceedings, be entitled to make any submissions on the application'?
- 3. Is the national court which has received an application by the holder of parental responsibility for non-recognition of that part of the decision of the court of the Member State of origin requiring the child staying with that person to be returned to the State of origin, and in respect of which the certificate provided for in Article 42 of [the Regulation] has been issued, required to examine that application on the basis of the provisions of Sections 1 and 2 of Chapter III of [the Regulation], as provided for in Article 40(2) of that regulation?
- 4. What meaning is to be attached to the condition laid down in Article 21(3) of [the Regulation] ('[w]ithout prejudice to Section 4 of this Chapter')?
- 5. Do the adoption of the decision to return the child and the issue of the certificate under Article 42 of [the Regulation] in the court of the Member

- '1. Once a non-return decision has been taken and brought to the attention of the court of origin, it is irrelevant, for the purposes of issuing the certificate provided for in Article 42 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, that that decision has been suspended, overturned, set aside or, in any event, has not become res judicata or has been replaced by a decision ordering return. in so far as the return of the child has not actually taken place. Since no doubt has been expressed as regards the authenticity of that certificate and since it was drawn up in accordance with the standard form set out in Annex IV to the Regulation, opposition to the recognition of the decision ordering return is not permitted and it is for the requested court only to declare the enforceability of the certified decision and to allow the immediate return of the child.
- 2. Except where the procedure concerns a decision certified pursuant to Articles 11(8) and 40 to 42 of Regulation No 2201/2003, any interested party can apply for non-recognition of a judicial decision, even if no application for recognition of the decision has been submitted beforehand.
- 3. Article 31(1) of Regulation No 2201/2003, in so far as it provides that neither the person against whom enforcement is sought, nor the child is, at this stage of the proceedings, entitled to make any submissions on the application, is not applicable to proceedings initiated for non-recognition of a judicial decision if no application for recognition

		State of origin, after a court of the Member State in which the child is wrongfully retained has taken a decision that the child be returned to his or her State of origin, comply with the objectives of and procedures under [the Regulation]?  6. Does the prohibition in Article 24 of [the Regulation] of review of the jurisdiction of the court of the Member State of origin mean that, if it is unable to review the jurisdiction of the court of the Member State of origin and cannot identify any other grounds for non-recognition of decisions as set out in Article 23 of [the Regulation], a national court which has received an application for recognition or non-recognition of a decision of a foreign court is obliged to recognise the decision of the court of the Member State of origin ordering the child's return if the court of the Member State of origin failed to observe the procedures laid down in the Regulation when deciding on the issue of the child's return?'	has been lodged beforehand in respect of that decision. In such a situation, the defendant, who is seeking recognition, is entitled to make such submissions.'
C-523/07 A. [2009] ECR I-2805	BIlbis Articles 1(2)(d), 8(1), 13(1), 20(1)	'1. (a) Does [the] Regulation apply to the enforcement, such as in the present case, of a public-law decision made in connection with child protection, as a single decision, concerning the immediate taking into care of a child and his or her placement outside the home, in its entirety,  (b) or, having regard to the provision in Article 1(2)(d) of the regulation, only to the part of the decision relating to the placement outside the home?  2. How is the concept of habitual residence in Article 8(1) of the regulation, like the associated Article 13(1), to be interpreted in Community law,	'1. Article 1(1) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as meaning that a decision ordering that a child be immediately taken into care and placed outside his original home is covered by the term 'civil matters', for the purposes of that provision, where that decision was adopted in the context of public law rules relating to child protection.  2. The concept of 'habitual residence' under Article 8(1) of Regulation No 2201/2003 must be	link bearing in mind in particular the situation in which a child has a permanent residence in one Member State but is staying in another Member State, carrying on a peripatetic life there?

- 3. (a) If it is considered that the child's habitual residence is not in the latter Member State, on what conditions may an urgent measure (taking into care) nevertheless be taken in that Member State on the basis of Article 20(1) of the regulation?
- (b) Is a protective measure within the meaning of Article 20(1) of the regulation solely a measure which can be taken under national law, and are the provisions of national law concerning that measure binding when the article is applied?
- (c) Must the case, after the taking of the protective measure, be transferred of the court's own motion to the court of the Member State with jurisdiction?
- 4. If the court of a Member State has no jurisdiction at all, must it dismiss the case as inadmissible or transfer it to the court of the other Member State?'

interpreted as meaning that it corresponds to the place which reflects some degree of integration by the child in a social and family environment. To that end, in particular the duration, regularity, conditions and reasons for the stay on the territory of a Member State and the family's move to that State, the child's nationality, the place and conditions of attendance at school, linguistic knowledge and the family and social relationships of the child in that State must be taken into consideration. It is for the national court to establish the habitual residence of the child, taking account of all the circumstances specific to each individual case.

3. A protective measure, such as the taking into care of children, may be decided by a national court under Article 20 of Regulation No 2201/2003 if the following conditions are satisfied:

-the measure must be urgent;

-it must be taken in respect of persons in the Member State concerned, and

-it must be provisional.

4. The taking of the measure and its binding nature are determined in accordance with national law. After the protective measure has been taken, the national court is not required to transfer the case to the court of another Member State having jurisdiction. However, in so far as the protection of the best interests of the child so requires, the national court which has taken provisional or protective measures must inform, directly or through the central authority designated under Article 53 of Regulation No 2201/2003, the court of another Member State having jurisdiction.

C-168/08 Hadadi v Hadadi [2009] ECR I- 6871	BIlbis Articles 3(1), 64(4)	'1. Is Article 3(1)(b) [of Regulation No 2201/2003] to be interpreted as meaning that, in a situation where the spouses hold both the nationality of the State of the court seised and the nationality of another Member State of the European Union, the nationality of the State of the court seised must prevail?  2. If the answer to Question 1 is in the negative, is that provision to be interpreted as referring, in a situation where the spouses each hold dual nationality of the same two Member States, to the more effective of the two nationalities?  3. If the answer to Question 2 is in the negative, should it therefore be considered that that provision offers the spouses an additional option, allowing those spouses the choice of seising the courts of either of the two States of which they both hold the nationality?'	must verify, pursuant to Article 64(4) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Council Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, whether the court of the Member State of origin of a judgment would have had jurisdiction under Article 3(1)(b) of that regulation, the latter provision precludes the court of the Member State addressed from regarding spouses who each hold the nationality both of that State and of the Member State of origin as nationals only of the Member State addressed. That court must, on the contrary, take into account the fact that the spouses also hold the nationality of the Member State of origin and that, therefore, the courts of the latter could have had jurisdiction to hear the case.  2. Where spouses each hold the nationality of the same two Member States, Article 3(1)(b) of Regulation No 2201/2003 precludes the	link jurisdiction of the courts of one of those Member States from being rejected on the ground that the applicant does not put forward other links with that

C-403/09 PPU Jasna Deticek v Maurizio Sgueglia [2009] ECR I- 12193	BIIbis Article 20	'1. Does a court of the Republic of Slovenia (a Member State of the European [Union]) have jurisdiction under Article 20 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] to take protective measures in a situation in which a court of another Member State, having by virtue of that regulation jurisdiction as to the substance, has already taken a protective measure declared enforceable in the Republic of Slovenia?  If the answer to the first question is in the affirmative:  2. May a Slovene court, pursuant to national law (as permitted by Article 20 of [Regulation No 2201/2003]), take a protective measure under	State. On the contrary, the courts of those Member States of which the spouses hold the nationality have jurisdiction under that provision and the spouses may seise the court of the Member State of their choice.'  'Article 20 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as not allowing, in circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, a court of a Member State to take a provisional measure in matters of parental responsibility granting custody of a child who is in the territory of that Member State to one parent, where a court of another Member State, which has jurisdiction under that regulation as to the substance of the dispute relating to custody of the child, has already delivered a judgment provisionally giving custody of the child to the other	link
		Article 20 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] amending or rendering inoperative a final and enforceable protective measure taken by a court of another Member State which under [Regulation 2201/2003] has jurisdiction as to the substance?'	parent, and that judgment has been declared enforceable in the territory of the former Member State.'
C-256/09 Bianca Purrucker v Guillermo Vallés Pérez [2010] ECR I-07353	BIlbis Articles 2(4), 20, 21	'Do the provisions of Article 21 et seq. of [Regulation No 2201/2003] concerning the recognition and enforcement of decisions of other Member States, in accordance with Article 2(4) of that regulation, also apply to enforceable provisional measures, within the meaning of Article 20 of that regulation, concerning the right to child custody?'	'The provisions laid down in Article 21 et seq. of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, do not apply to provisional measures, relating to rights of custody, falling within the scope of Article 20 of that regulation.'	link

be pleaded before the court which has jurisdiction in the Member State of origin, which should also

C-211/10 PPU Povse v

Alpago [2010] ECR I-

6673

BIIbis

10(b)(iv),

42(2), 47(2)

Articles

11(8),

'1. Is a "judgment on custody that does not entail the return of the child" within the meaning of Article 10(b)(iv) of [the regulation] also to be understood as meaning a provisional measure by which "parental decision-making power" and in particular the right to determine the place of residence is awarded to the abducting parent

2. Does a return order fall within the scope of Article 11(8) of [the regulation] only where the court orders return on the basis of a judgment on

3. If Question 1 or 2 is answered in the

(a) Can the lack of jurisdiction of the court of origin (Question 1) or the inapplicability of Article 11(8) of [the regulation] (Question 2) be relied on in the second State as against the enforcement of a judgment in respect of which the court of origin has issued a certificate in accordance with

(b) Or, in such circumstances, must the opposing party apply for that certificate to be revoked in the State of origin, thereby allowing enforcement in the second State to be stayed pending the

4. If Questions 1 and 2 or Question 3(a) are/is Does a judgment delivered by a court in the second State and regarded as enforceable under the law of that State, by which provisional custody was awarded to the abducting parent, preclude pending the final judgment on custody?

custody delivered by that court?

Article 42(2) of [the regulation]?

decision in the State of origin?

answered in the negative:

affirmative:

C-497/10 PPU Mercredi	BIIbis Articles 8, 10	the enforcement of an earlier return order made in the State of origin under Article 11(8) of [the regulation], in accordance with Article 47(2) of [the regulation], even if it would not prevent the enforcement of a return order made in the second State under the Hague Convention?  5. If Question 4 is also answered in the negative:  (a) Can the second State refuse to enforce a judgment in respect of which the court of origin has issued a certificate under Article 42(2) of [the regulation] if, since its delivery, the circumstances have changed in such a way that enforcement would now constitute a serious risk to the best interests of the child?  (b) Or must the opposing party invoke that change of circumstances in the State of origin, thereby allowing enforcement in the second State to be stayed pending the judgment in the State of origin?'  (1) Please clarify the appropriate test for	'1. The concept of 'habitual residence', for the	link
v. Chaffe [2010] ECR I- 14309	Billio Attoles 6, 10	determining the habitual residence of a child for the purpose of:  -Article 8 of Regulation [No] 2201/2003;  -Article 10 of Regulation [No] 2201/2003.	purposes of Articles 8 and 10 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility,
		(2) Is a court an "institution or other body" to which rights of custody can be attributed for the	repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as meaning that such residence corresponds to the place which reflects some purposes of the provisions of Regulation [No] 2201/2003?
		(3) Does Article 10 have a continuing application after the courts of the requested Member State have rejected an application for the return of the	Member State - other than that of her habitual child under [the 1980 Hague Convention] on the basis that Articles 3 and 5 are not made out?  In particular, how should a conflict between a determination of the requested State that the requirements of Articles 3 and 5 of [the 1980 Hague Convention] are not met and a determination of the requesting State that the requirements of Articles 3 and 5 are met be resolved?'	factors which must be taken into consideration include, first, the duration, regularity, conditions and reasons for the stay in the territory of that Member State and for the mother's move to that State and, second, with particular reference to the child's age, the mother's geographic and family origins and the family and social connections which the mother and child have with that Member State. It is for the national court to establish the habitual residence of the child, taking account of all the circumstances of fact specific to each individual case.

			If the application of the abovementioned tests were, in the case in the main proceedings, to lead to the conclusion that the child's habitual residence cannot be established, which court has jurisdiction would have to be determined on the basis of the criterion of the child's presence, under Article 13 of the Regulation.
			2. Judgments of a court of a Member State which refuse to order the prompt return of a child under the Hague Convention of 25 October 1980 on the civil aspects of international child abduction to the jurisdiction of a court of another Member State and which concern parental responsibility for that child have no effect on judgments which have to be delivered in that other Member State in proceedings relating to parental responsibility which were brought earlier and are still pending in that other Member State.'
C-400/10 PPU McB [2010] ECR I-08965	BIIbis Article 2(11)	'Does [Regulation No 2201/2003], whether interpreted pursuant to Article 7 of [the Charter] or otherwise, preclude a Member State from requiring by its law that the father of a child who is not married to the mother shall have obtained	'Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the	link an order of a court of competent jurisdiction granting him custody in order to qualify as having 'custody rights' which render the removal of that child from its country of habitual residence wrongful for the purposes of Article 2(11) of that Regulation?'	a Member State from providing by its law that the acquisition of rights of custody by a child's father, where he is not married to the child's mother, is dependent on the father's obtaining a judgment from a national court with jurisdiction awarding such rights to him, on the basis of which the removal of the child by its mother or the retention of that child may be considered wrongful, within the meaning of Article 2(11) of that regulation.'

C-296/10 Bianca Purrucker v Guillermo Vallés Pérez II [2010] ECR I-11163	BIlbis Articles 19(2), 20, 21	'(1) Is Article 19(2) of Regulation [No 2201/2003] applicable if a court of a Member State first seised by one party to resolve matters of parental responsibility is called upon to grant only provisional measures and a court of another Member State subsequently seised by the other party of an action with the same object is called upon to rule on the substance of the matter?  (2) Is [Article 19(2)] also applicable if a ruling in the isolated proceedings for provisional measures in one Member State is not capable of recognition in another Member State within the meaning of Article 21 of Regulation No 2201/2003?  (3) Is the seising of a court in a Member State for isolated proceedings for provisional measures to be equated to seising as to the substance of the matter within the meaning of Article 19(2) of Regulation No 2201/2003 if under the national rules of procedure of that State a subsequent action to rule on the substance of the matter must be brought before that court within a specified period in order to avoid adverse procedural consequences?'	The provisions of Article 19(2) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, are not applicable where a court of a Member State first seised for the purpose of obtaining measures in matters of parental responsibility is seised only for the purpose of its granting provisional measures within the meaning of Article 20 of that regulation and where a court of another Member State which has jurisdiction as to the substance of the matter within the meaning of the same regulation is seised second of an action directed at obtaining the same measures, whether on a provisional basis or as final measures.  The fact that a court of a Member State is seised in the context of proceedings to obtain interim relief or that a judgment is handed down in the context of such proceedings and there is nothing in the action brought or the judgment handed down which indicates that the court seised for the interim measures has jurisdiction within the meaning of Regulation No 2201/2003 does not necessarily preclude the possibility that, as may be provided	link

for by the national law of that Member State, there may be an action as to the substance of the matter which is linked to the action to obtain interim measures and in which there is evidence to demonstrate that the court seised has jurisdiction within the meaning of that regulation.  Where, notwithstanding efforts made by the court second seised to obtain information by enquiry of the party claiming lis pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aquirre  ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infingement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of origin contains a serious infingement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of origin contains a serious infingement of undamental rights, does the court of a certified judgment, ordering the enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the enforcement or a certified judgment or a certified judgment or a nor measures and in which there is evidence to demonstrate that the court seised has jurisdiction within the meaning of that regulation.  Where, notwithstanding efforts made by the court second seised to obtain information by enquiry of the party claiming lis pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second selsed, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquires made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of the action of the action brought before it. The duration of the action of the action brought before it. The duration of the action of the demonstrate the experiment of the duration of the action of the demonstrate the experiment of the demonstrate of the duration of the action of the action of the demonstrate the experiment of the durat				may be an action as to the substance of the matter demonstrate that the court seised has jurisdiction within the meaning of that regulation.  Where, notwithstanding efforts made by the court second seised to obtain information by enquiry of the party claiming lis pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned:  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  BIllibis Article 42  1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?
within the meaning of that regulation.  Where, notwithstanding efforts made by the court second seised to obtain information by enquiry of the party claiming lisp pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.  11. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does concerned.  12. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does concerned.  13. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does concerned.  14. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation Where, notwithstanding efforts made by the court second seised to obtain information by enquiry of the party claiming lis pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised and the central authority, the court second seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.*  11. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?
Second seised to obtain information by enquiry of the party claiming lis pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.    C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011]   Second Pelz (2011)   The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the main the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of (Regulation No 2201/2003) in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?				within the meaning of that regulation.
the party claiming lis pendens, the court first seised and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011]  ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights? and the central authority, the court second seised lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011]  ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with be courted the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation				1 lacks any evidence which enables it to determine the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States of ther than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre  Zarraga v Pelz [2011]  ECR I-14247  BIllibis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?    C-491/10 PPU Aguirre   III   I the cause of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  BIllbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  ### Cardinary of action of proceedings brought before another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of the proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  'In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the reversionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  another court and which serves, in particular, to demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003] and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child revenue the example of the court of the Area of the proceedings of the endorsement of the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the entorement of a certified judgment, ordering the enforcement of a certified judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation				l • demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.¹  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the reforement of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  demonstrate the jurisdiction of that court in accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child repair to the endit pudgment are avaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the child in the specific circumstances of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.¹  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the reforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the reforcement of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of (Regulation No 2201/2003) in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  accordance with Regulation No 2201/2003, and where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States of the court, are avaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the areasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  where, because of specific circumstances, the interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in the Member States of the court of the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the court with consideration of the court with purisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011]  ECR I-14247  BIIbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  interest of the child requires the handing down of a judgment may have infringes the handing down of a judgment of thember States other than that of the court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the child in the specific circumstances of the child in the specific circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation judgment which may be recognised in Member States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?    Judgment which may be recognised in Member States of the court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the court of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that jurisdiction in the forcement of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that jurisdiction in the function of action of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that jurisdiction in the function of action of action to account the enquiries made are awaited, to proceedings the States other than that of the court second seised, it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  States other than that of the court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  'In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  it is the duty of that court, after the expiry of a reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed insued in the specific circumstances of the child in the specific circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin contains a serious proceedings.
reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  BIlbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period in which answers to the enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the enforcement of a circlid who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011]  ECR I-14247  BIlbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  enquiries made are awaited, to proceed with consideration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247 BIIbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  Consideration of the action brought before it. The duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  BIlbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  duration of that reasonable period must take into account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  'In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  Billbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  account the best interests of the child in the specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  'In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation
C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247 BIlbis Article 42 '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  specific circumstances of the proceedings concerned.'  'In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation
C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247 BIlbis Article 42 '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?    Concerned.' In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation
C-491/10 PPU Aguirre Zarraga v Pelz [2011] ECR I-14247  BIlbis Article 42  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  '1. Where the judgment to be enforced issued in the Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation				, ·
Tarraga v Pelz [2011]  ECR I-14247  the Member State of origin contains a serious infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  the Member State of origin contains a serious infringed, the court with jurisdiction in the Member State of enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation infringement of fundamental rights, does the court of the Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  Member State of enforcement cannot oppose the enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation		BIIbis Article 42			link court of the Member State of enforcement exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  enforcement of a certified judgment, ordering the return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation exceptionally itself enjoy a power of review, pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  return of a child who has been wrongfully removed, on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation	ECR I-14247 pursuant to an interpretation of Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights?  on the ground that the court of the Member State of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation [Regulation No 2201/2003] in conformity with the Charter of Fundamental Rights? of origin which handed down that judgment may have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation Charter of Fundamental Rights? have infringed Article 42 of Council Regulation
(EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003			Charter of Fundamental Rights?
				(EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003

		2. Is the court of the Member State of enforcement obliged to enforce the judgment of the court of the Member State of origin notwithstanding the fact that, according to the case-file, the certificate issued by the court of the Member State of origin under Article 42 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] contains a declaration which is manifestly inaccurate?'	enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, interpreted in accordance with Article 24 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European
C-92/12 PPU Health Service Executive [2012] ECLI:EU:C:2012:255	BIIbis Article 56	'(1) Does a judgment which provides for the detention of a child for a specified time in another Member State in an institution providing therapeutic and educational care come within the material scope of [the Regulation]?  (2) If the answer to Question one is yes, what obligations, if any, arise out of Article 56 of [the Regulation] as to the nature of the consultation and consent mechanism to ensure the effective protection of a child who is to be so detained?  (3) Where a court of a Member State has contemplated the placement of a child for a specified time in a residential care institution in another Member State and has obtained the consent of that State in accordance with Article 56 of [the Regulation], must the judgment of the court directing the placement of a child for a specified time in a residential care institution situate in another Member State be recognised and/or declared enforceable in that other Member State as a precondition to the placement being effected?  (4) Does a judgment of the court directing the	'1. A judgment of a court of a Member State which orders the placement of child in a secure institution providing therapeutic and educational care situated in another Member State and which entails that, for her own protection, the child is deprived of her liberty for a specified period, falls within the material scope of Council Regulation No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000.  2. The consent referred to in Article 56(2) of Regulation No 2201/2003 must be given, prior to the making of the judgment on placement of a child, by a competent authority, governed by public law. The fact that the institution where the child is to be placed gives its consent is not sufficient. In circumstances such as those of the main proceedings, where a court of a Member State which made the judgment on placement is uncertain whether a consent was validly given in the requested Member State, because it was not possible to identify with certainty the competent authority in the latter State, an irregularity may be	link placement of the child for a specified time in a	corrected in order to ensure that the requirement

		residential care institution situate in another Member State and which has been consented to by that Member State in accordance with Article	of consent imposed by Article 56 of the Regulation No 2201/2003 has been fully complied with.
		56 of [the Regulation] have any legal effect in that other Member State prior to the grant of a declaration of recognition and/or enforceability upon the completion of the proceedings seeking	3. Regulation No 2201/2003 must be interpreted as meaning that a judgment of a court of a Member State which orders the compulsory placement of a child in a secure care institution situated in another such declaration of recognition and/or enforceability?  (5) Where a judgment of the court directing the	Member State must, before its enforcement in the requested Member State, be declared to be enforceable in that Member State. In order not to deprive that regulation of its effectiveness, the placement of the child for a specified time in a residential care institution situate in another Member State under Article 56 of [the Regulation]	decision of the court of the requested Member State on the application for a declaration of enforceability must be made with particular is renewed for a further specified time, must the Article 56 consent of the other Member State be obtained upon the occasion of each renewal?	expedition and appeals brought against such a decision of the court of the requested Member State must not have a suspensive effect.
		(6) Where a judgment of the court directing the placement of the child for a specified time in a residential care institution situate in another Member State under Article 56 of [the Regulation]	4. Where a consent to placement under Article 56(2) of Regulation No 2201/2003 has been given for a specified period of time, that consent does not apply to orders which are intended to extend the is renewed for a further specified time must the judgment be recognised and/or enforced in that other Member State upon the occasion of each renewal?'	duration of the placement. In such circumstances, an application for a new consent must be made. A judgment on placement made in a Member State, declared to be enforceable in another Member State, can be enforced in that other Member State only for the period stated in the judgment on placement.'
C-4/14 Bohez v Wiertz [2014] ECLI:EU:C:2015:563	BIIbis Article 47(1)	to be interpreted as meaning that cases concerning the enforcement of a penalty payment (astreinte) imposed to ensure compliance with the principal obligation in a case concerning child	'1. Article 1 of Council Regulation (EC) No 44/2001 of 22 December 2000 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters must be interpreted as meaning that that regulation does not apply to the	link custody or rights of access are outside the scope of the regulation?	enforcement in a Member State of a penalty payment which is imposed in a judgment, given in another Member State, concerning rights of

- (2) If the cases set out in the preceding paragraph fall within the scope of ... Regulation [No 44/2001], is Article 49 of [that] regulation to be interpreted as meaning that a periodic penalty payment which is enforceable as such in the amount stated in the State in which judgment was given, but whose final amount may be changed on the application or arguments of the party subject to the penalty payment, is enforceable in a[nother] Member State only if its amount has been separately determined in the State in which judgment was given?
- (3) If cases such as those identified above are outside the scope of ... Regulation [No 44/2001], is Article 47(1) of ... Regulation [No 2201/2003] to be interpreted as meaning that penalties and protective measures concerning child custody and rights of access fall within the enforcement procedure referred to in that provision which is governed by the legislation of the Member State of enforcement, or can they form part of the judgment concerning child custody and rights of access which is enforceable in another Member State under ... Regulation [No 2201/2003]?
- (4) When enforcement of a penalty payment is sought in another Member State, is it a requirement that the amount of the penalty payment to be enforced has been finally determined separately in the Member State in which judgment was given, even if ... Regulation [No 44/2001] does not apply in the enforcement proceedings?
- (5) If a periodic penalty payment imposed as a means to ensure compliance with rights of access is enforceable in another Member State

- custody and rights of access in order to ensure that the holder of the rights of custody complies with those rights of access.
- 2. Recovery of a penalty payment a penalty which the court of the Member State of origin that gave judgment on the merits with regard to rights of access has imposed in order to ensure the effectiveness of those rights forms part of the same scheme of enforcement as the judgment concerning the rights of access that the penalty safeguards and the latter must therefore be declared enforceable in accordance with the rules laid down by Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000.
- 3. In the context of Regulation No 2201/2003, a foreign judgment which orders a periodic penalty payment is enforceable in the Member State in which enforcement is sought only if the amount of the payment has been finally determined by the courts of the Member State of origin.'

		without the amount of the penalty payment to be enforced having separately been finally determined:
		(a) does the enforcement of the penalty payment nevertheless require a review of whether the failure to comply with rights of access was based on obstacles which it was essential to take into consideration on account of the rights of children, and
		(b) which court has jurisdiction to examine such factors, more specifically,
		(i) is the jurisdiction of the court of the State of enforcement always limited solely to an examination of whether the alleged failure to comply with rights of access has occurred for reasons which are expressly set out in the judgment in the main proceedings, or
		(ii) does it follow from the protection of the rights of children in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union that the court of the State of enforcement has a more extensive right or obligation to examine whether the failure to comply with rights of access was based on grounds which it was essential to take into consideration in order to safeguard the rights of children?'
C-376/14 PPU C. v M. [2014] ECLI:EU:C:2014:2268	BIIbis Articles 2(11), 11	'(1) Does the existence of the French proceedings relating to the custody of the child preclude, in the circumstances of this case, the establishment of habitual residence of the child in Ireland?	No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of	link

- (2) Does either the father or the French courts continue to maintain custody rights in relation to the child so as to render wrongful the retention of the child in Ireland?
- (3) Are the Irish courts entitled to consider the question of habitual residence of the child in the circumstances where she has resided in Ireland since July 2012, at which time her removal to Ireland was not in breach of French law?'
- taken place in accordance with a judgment which was provisionally enforceable and which was thereafter overturned by a judgment which fixed the residence of the child at the home of the parent living in the Member State of origin, the court of the Member State to which the child was removed. seised of an application for the return of the child. must determine, by undertaking an assessment of all the circumstances of fact specific to the individual case, whether the child was still habitually resident in the Member State of origin immediately before the alleged wrongful retention. As part of that assessment, it is important that account be taken of the fact that the judgment authorising the removal could be provisionally enforced and that an appeal had been brought against it.
- 2. Regulation No 2201/2003 must be interpreted as meaning that, in circumstances where the removal of a child has taken place in accordance with a court judgment which was provisionally enforceable and which was thereafter overturned by a court judgment fixing the child's residence at the home of the parent living in the Member State of origin, the failure to return the child to that Member State following the latter judgment is wrongful and Article 11 of the Regulation is applicable if it is held that the child was still habitually resident in that Member State immediately before the retention. If it is held, conversely, that the child was at that time no longer habitually resident in the Member State of origin, a decision dismissing the application for return based on that provision is without prejudice to the application of the rules established in Chapter III of the Regulation relating to the recognition and enforcement of judgments given in a Member State.'

C-436/13 E. v B. [2014 ECLI:EU:C:2014:2246	BIIbis Articles 8, 12, 15	'(1) Where there has been a prorogation of the jurisdiction of a court of a Member State in relation to matters of parental responsibility pursuant to Article 12(3) of [Regulation No 2201/2003], does that prorogation of jurisdiction only continue until there has been a final judgment in those proceedings or does it continue even after the making of a final judgment?  (2) Does Article 15 of [Regulation No 2201/2003] allow the courts of a Member State to transfer a jurisdiction in circumstances where there are no current proceedings concerning the child?'	'Jurisdiction in matters of parental responsibility which has been prorogued, under Article 12(3) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, in favour of a court of a Member State before which proceedings have been brought by mutual agreement by the holders of parental responsibility ceases following a final judgment in those proceedings.'	link
C-656/13 L v M [2014 ECLI:EU:C:2014:2364	BIIbis Article 12(3)	'1. Must Article 12(3) of [Regulation No 2201/2003] be interpreted as establishing jurisdiction over proceedings concerning parental responsibility even where no other related proceedings (that is, "proceedings other than those referred to in paragraph 1") are pending?  2. In the event of an affirmative answer to Question 1:  Must Article 12(3) of [Regulation No 2201/2003] be interpreted as meaning that ["]acceptance expressly or otherwise in an unequivocal manner["] includes also the situation in which the party who has not initiated proceedings makes a separate application for the initiation of proceedings in the same case but immediately on doing the first act required of him objects that the court lacks jurisdiction in the proceedings previously started on the application by the other party?'	'1. Article 12(3) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as allowing, for the purposes of proceedings in matters of parental responsibility, the jurisdiction of a court of a Member State which is not that of the child's habitual residence to be established even where no other proceedings are pending before the court chosen.  2. Article 12(3)(b) of Regulation No 2201/2003 must be interpreted as meaning that it cannot be considered that the jurisdiction of the court seised by one party of proceedings in matters of parental responsibility has been 'accepted expressly or otherwise in an unequivocal manner by all the parties to the proceedings' within the meaning of that provision where the defendant in those first	link

Opinion of the Court (Grand Chamber) of 14 October 2014 1/13, 11 October 2014, ECLI:EU:C:2014:2303	-	'Does the exclusive competence of the [European] Union encompass the acceptance of the accession of a non-Union country to the Convention on the civil aspects of international child abduction [concluded in the Hague on] 25 October 1980 [("the 1980 Hague Convention" or "the Convention")]?'	proceedings subsequently brings a second set of proceedings before the same court and, on taking the first step required of him in the first proceedings, pleads the lack of jurisdiction of that court.'  'The exclusive competence of the European Union encompasses the acceptance of the accession of a third State to the Convention on the civil aspects of international child abduction concluded in The Hague on 25 October 1980.'	link
C-215/15 Vasilka Ivanova Gogova v Ilia Dimitrov Iliev [2015] ECLI:EU:C:2015:710	BIlbis Articles 1(1)(b), 2(7), 8(1 and 12(1)(b) 12(3)(b)	civil courts to resolve a dispute between parents	'1. An action in which one parent asks the court to remedy the lack of agreement of the other parent to their child travelling outside his Member State of residence and a passport being issued in the child's name is within the material scope of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, even though the decision in that action will have to be taken into account by the authorities of the Member State of which the child is a national in the administrative procedure for the issue of that passport.  2. Article 12(3)(b) of Regulation No 2201/2003 must be interpreted as meaning that the jurisdiction of the courts seised of an application in matters of parental responsibility may not be regarded as having been 'accepted expressly or otherwise in an unequivocal manner by all the parties to the proceedings' within the meaning of that provision solely because the legal representative of the defendant, appointed by those courts of their own	link challenged the jurisdiction of the court but where that representative has not been authorised by the defendant but rather appointed by the court owing to the difficulty in notifying the defendant in order for him to take part in the proceedings in person or through a representative instructed by him?'	motion in view of the impossibility of serving the document instituting proceedings on the defendant, has not pleaded the lack of jurisdiction of those courts.'

C 455/15 PPU P v Q [2015] ECLI:EU:C:2015:763	BIlbis Articles 23(a) and 24	'Should the [referring court], in accordance with Article 23(a) of [Regulation No 2201/2003] or any other provision and notwithstanding Article 24 of that regulation, refuse to recognise the judgment of the [Šilutės rajono apylinkės teismas (District Court, Šilutė)] of 18 February 2015 and consequently continue the proceedings in the custody case pending before the [referring court]?'		link
C-184/14 A v B [2015] ECLI:EU:C:2015:479	Maintenance Regulation (4/2009) (interpretation potentially relevant for the BIIbis)	'May the decision on a request for child maintenance raised in the context of proceedings concerning the legal separation of spouses, being ancillary to those proceedings, be taken both by the court before which those separation proceedings are pending and by the court before which proceedings concerning parental responsibility are pending, on the basis of the prevention criterion, or must that decision of necessity be taken only by the latter court, as the two distinct criteria set out in points (c) and (d) of [Article 3 of Regulation No 4/2009] are alternatives (in the sense that they are mutually exclusive)?'	'Article 3(c) and (d) of Council Regulation (EC) No 4/2009 of 18 December 2008 on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of decisions and cooperation in matters relating to maintenance obligations must be understood as meaning that, in the event that a court of a Member State is seised of proceedings involving the separation or dissolution of a marital link between the parents of a minor child and a court of another Member State is seised of proceedings in matters of parental responsibility involving that same child, an application relating to maintenance concerning that child is ancillary only to the proceedings	link

	T
			concerning parental responsibility, within the meaning of Article 3(d) of that regulation.
C-404/14 Matoušková	BIIbis Articles	'If an agreement on the sharing-out of an estate	'Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27	link
[2015]	1(1)(b), 1(3)(f)	concluded on behalf of a minor by his or her	November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the ECLI:EU:C:2015:653		guardian ad litem requires the approval of a court	recognition and enforcement of judgments in in order to be valid, is that decision on the part of	matrimonial matters and the matters of parental
		the court a measure within the meaning of Article	responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No
		1(1)(b) or a measure within the meaning of Article	1347/2000, must be interpreted as meaning that 1(3)(f) of [Regulation No 2201/2003]?'	the approval of an agreement for the sharing-out of [ (o)(i) of [Regulation No 220 1/2000].	an estate concluded by a guardian ad litem on behalf of minor children constitutes a measure relating to the exercise of parental responsibility, within the meaning of Article 1(1)(b) of that regulation and thus falls within the scope of the latter, and not a measure relating to succession, within the meaning of Article 1(3)(f) thereof, 0.400/44 DDII D : I	5	(A	excluded from the scope thereof.'	12. 1
C-498/14 PPU David	BIIbis Articles 11(7)	'Are the provisions in Article 11(7) and (8) of the	'Article 11(7) and (8) of Council Regulation (EC) No	link
Bradbrooke v Anna	and 11(8)	Regulation to be interpreted as precluding a	2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning Aleksandrowicz [2015]		Member State from:	jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of ECLI:EU:C:2015:3			judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters
		-giving preference to the specialisation of courts	of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation in situations of parental child abduction with	(EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as not respect to the procedure provided for in those	precluding, as a general rule, a Member State from provisions even where a court or tribunal has	allocating to a specialised court the jurisdiction to already been seised of proceedings concerning	examine questions of return or custody with the substance of parental responsibility in relation	respect to a child in the context of the procedure to the child?	set out in those provisions, even where
		-removing, from the court seised of proceedings	proceedings on the substance of parental on the substance of parental responsibility in	responsibility with respect to the child have relation to the child, jurisdiction to give judgment	already, separately, been brought before a court or on the custody of the child, even though that court	tribunal.'
		has jurisdiction, under international and national law, to give judgment on questions of parental responsibility in relation to the child?'
	ı	11		I .

C-489/14 A v B [2015] ECLI:EU:C:2015:654	BIlbis Articles 19 and 19(3)	Regulation No 2201/2003], what does "established" mean, in circumstances where:  (a) the applicant, in the proceedings in the court first seised ("the first proceedings"), takes virtually no steps in the first proceedings beyond the first court appointment, and in particular does not issue a Petition (Assignation) within the time-limit for the expiry of the Request (Requête), with the result that the first proceedings expire undetermined by effluxion of time and in accordance with the local (French) law of the first proceedings, namely 30 months after the first directions appointment;  (b) the first proceedings expire as above very shortly (3 days) after the proceedings in the court second seised ("the second proceedings") are issued in England, with the result that there is no judgment in France nor any danger of irreconcilable judgments between the first proceedings and the second proceedings; and  (c) by virtue of the United Kingdom's time zone the applicant in the first proceedings would, following the lapse of the first proceedings, always be able to issue divorce proceedings in France before the applicant [in the second proceedings] could issue divorce proceedings in England?  (2) In particular, does "established" import that the applicant in the first proceedings must take	proceedings brought between the same parties before the courts of two Member States, Article 19(1) and (3) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as meaning that, in a situation such as that at issue in the main proceedings in which the proceedings before the court first seised in the first Member State expired after the second court in the second Member State was seised, the criteria for lis pendens are no longer fulfilled and, therefore, the jurisdiction of the court first seised must be regarded as not being established.'
		` '

		once secured jurisdiction under Articles 3 and 19(1) [of Regulation No 2201/2003], free to take no substantive steps at all towards resolution of the first proceedings as above and free thereby simply to secure a stop of the second proceedings and a stalemate in the dispute as a whole?'
C-507/14 P v M [2015]	BIIbis Article 16(1)	'Si une procédure relative à la responsabilité	'L'article 16, paragraphe 1, sous a), du règlement	link
ECR OJ C 65	,	parentale a été engagée dans un État membre,	(CE) n° 2201/2003 du Conseil, du 27 novembre et s'il existe une autre procédure, ayant le même	2003, relatif à la compétence, la reconnaissance et objet et la même cause, engagée antérieurement	l'exécution des décisions en matière matrimoniale dans un État membre différent, procédure qui a	et en matière de responsabilité parentale entre-temps été suspendue à l'initiative de la	abrogeant le règlement (CE) n° 1347/2000, doit requérante l'ayant introduite, sans que ladite	être interprété en ce sens qu'une juridiction est procédure ait été notifiée à la partie	réputée saisie à la date à laquelle l'acte introductif défenderesse, et sans [que cette dernière] en ait	d'instance ou un acte équivalent est déposé eu connaissance ou y soit intervenue en aucune	auprès de cette juridiction, même lorsque la manière, celle-ci étant effectivement suspendue	procédure a entre-temps été suspendue à lors de l'introduction, par la partie défenderesse,	l'initiative du demandeur l'ayant introduite, sans de la procédure citée en premier lieu, peut-on	que ladite procédure ait été notifiée à la partie
		considérer, en vertu de l'article 16, paragraphe 1,	défenderesse ni que cette dernière en ait eu sous a), du règlement n° 2201/2003 et aux fins	connaissance ou y soit intervenue d'aucune de l'application de l'article 19, paragraphe 2, du	manière, pour autant que le demandeur n'a pas même règlement, que la procédure qui a fait	négligé par la suite de prendre les mesures qu'il
		, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,
		l'objet de cette suspension a été engagée en	était tenu de prendre pour que l'acte soit notifié ou
C-294/15 Edvta	Dilbio Article 1/1/c)	premier lieu?'	signifié à la partie défenderesse.'	link
	( ) ( ) .	(1) Do actions for annulment of a marriage	'1. Article 1(1)(a) of Council Regulation (EC) No	link
Mikołajczyk v Marie	the fifth and sixth	following the death of one of the spouses fall	2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning Louise Czarnecka and	indents of Article	within the scope of Regulation No 2201/2003?	jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of
Stefan Czarnecki [2016]	(3)(1)(a)	(O) to the event of an efficient in a second (a)	judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters
ECLI:EU:C:2016:772		(2) In the event of an affirmative answer to	of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation Question 1, does the scope of that regulation	(EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as extend to an action for annulment of marriage	meaning that an action for annulment of marriage brought by a person other than one of the	brought by a third party following the death of one spouses?	of the spouses falls within the scope of Regulation No 2201/2003.

C-281/15 Soha Sahyouni v Raja Mamisch [2016] ECLI:EU:C:2016:343	Rome III Regulation (1259/2010) (relevant to the interpretation of Article 1(1)(a) of the BIlbis)	(3) In the event of an affirmative answer to Question 2, in actions for annulment of marriage brought by a person other than one of the spouses, may the jurisdiction of the court be based on the grounds set out in the fifth and sixth indents of Article 3(1)(a) of the regulation?'	2. The fifth and sixth indents of Article 3(1)(a) of Regulation No 2201/2003 must be interpreted as meaning that a person other than one of the spouses who brings an action for annulment of marriage may not rely on the grounds of jurisdiction set out in those provisions.'  No judgement rendered due to the lack of jurisdiction.	link
C-428/15 Child and Family Agency v J. D. [2016] ECLI:EU:C:2016:819	Blibis Article 15	'(1) Does Article 15 of Regulation No 2201/2003 apply to public law care applications by a local authority in a Member State, when[,] if the Court of another Member State assumes jurisdiction, it will necessitate the commencement of separate proceedings by a different body pursuant to a different legal code and possibly, if not probably, relating to different factual circumstances?  (2) If so, to what extent, if any, should a court consider the likely impact of any request under Article 15[,] if accepted, upon the right of freedom of movement of the individuals affected?  (3) If the "best interests of the child" in Article 15(1) of Regulation No 2201/2003 refers only to the decision as to forum, what factors may a court consider under this heading, which have not already been considered in determining whether another court is "better placed"?  (4) May a court for the purposes of Article 15 of Regulation No 2201/2003 have regard to the substantive law, procedural provisions, or	'1. Article 15 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as meaning that it is applicable where a child protection application brought under public law by the competent authority of a Member State concerns the adoption of measures relating to parental responsibility, such as the application at issue in the main proceedings, where it is a necessary consequence of a court of another Member State assuming jurisdiction that an authority of that other Member State thereafter commence proceedings that are separate from those brought in the first Member State, pursuant to its own domestic law and possibly relating to different factual circumstances.  2. Article 15(1) of Regulation No 2201/2003 must be interpreted as meaning that:  —in order to determine that a court of another Member State with which the child has a particular	link practice of the courts of the relevant Member State?  (5) To what extent should a national court, in considering Article 15 of Regulation No 2201/2003, have regard to the specific circumstances of the case, including the desire of a mother to move beyond the reach of the social services of her home State, and thereafter give birth to her child in another jurisdiction with a social services system she considers more favourable?  (6) Precisely what matters are to be considered by a national court in determining which court is best placed to determine the matter?'	jurisdiction in a Member State must be satisfied that the transfer of the case to that other court is such as to provide genuine and specific added value to the examination of that case, taking into account, inter alia, the rules of procedure applicable in that other Member State; —in order to determine that such a transfer is in the best interests of the child, the court having jurisdiction in a Member State must be satisfied, in particular, that that transfer is not liable to be detrimental to the situation of the child.

C-173/16 M.H. v M.H. [2016] ECLI:EU:C:2016:542	BIIbis Article 16(1)(a)	'Is "the time when the document instituting the proceedings is lodged with the court" in Article 16(1)(a) of Regulation 2201/2003 to be interpreted as meaning:-  (i) the time at which the document instituting the proceedings is received by the court even if such receipt does not of itself immediately commence the proceedings in accordance with national law; or	'Article 16(1)(a) of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted to the effect that the 'time when the document instituting the proceedings or an equivalent document is lodged with the court', within the meaning of that provision, is the time when that document is lodged with the court concerned, even if under national	link

		(ii) the time at which, following receipt of the document instituting the proceedings by the court, the proceedings are commenced in accordance with national law?'	law lodging that document does not of itself immediately initiate proceedings.'
C-67/17 Todor Iliev v Blagovesta Ilieva [2017] ECLI:EU:C:2017:459	Brussels Ibis Regulation (1215/2012) (relevant to the interpretation of Article 1(1)(a) of the BIIbis)	'(1) Does an action between former spouses on the division of movable property acquired during the marriage as joint property of the spouses constitute a legal dispute relating to rights in property arising out of a matrimonial relationship within the meaning of Article 1(2)(a) of Regulation [No 1215/2012]?  (2) Is a dispute concerning the division of movable property acquired during the marriage, but registered with the competent national authorities only in the name of one of the spouses, excluded from its scope under Article 1(2)(a) of Regulation [No 1215/2012]?  (3) Which court has jurisdiction over a dispute between former spouses on the ownership of immovable property acquired during their civil marriage, when the spouses are nationals of a Member State of [the European Union], but it has been established in the proceedings that at the time of entering the marriage and the application for division of the property after the marriage had ended, they had their place of residence in another Member State?'	'Article 1(2)(a) of Regulation (EU) No 1215/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 12 December 2012 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters must be interpreted as meaning that a dispute such as that in the main proceedings, relating to the liquidation of property — acquired during marriage by spouses who are nationals of a Member State but domiciled in another Member State — after a divorce has taken place, does not come within the scope of that regulation but comes rather within the scope of matrimonial property regimes and, consequently, within the scope of the exclusions listed in Article 1(2)(a) of that regulation.'
C-372/16 Soha Sahyouni v Raja Mamisch [2017] ECLI:EU:C:2017:988	Rome III Regulation (1259/2010) (relevant to the interpretation of Article 1(1)(a) of the BIIbis)	'(1) Does the scope of [Regulation No 1259/2010], as defined in Article 1 of that regulation, also include cases of private divorce, in this instance one pronounced by unilateral declaration of a spouse before a religious court in Syria on the basis of sharia?		link

		<ul> <li>(2) If the answer to Question 1 is in the affirmative: In applying Regulation [No 1259/2010] [when examining] Article 10 thereof in cases of private divorce,</li> <li>(a) is account to be taken in the abstract of a comparison showing that, while the applicable law pursuant to Article 8 grants access to divorce to the other spouse too, that divorce is, on account of the other spouse's sex, subject to procedural and substantive conditions different from those applicable to access for the first spouse, or</li> <li>(b) does the applicability of that rule depend on whether the application of the foreign law, which</li> </ul>	main proceedings, does not come within the substantive scope of that regulation.'
		is discriminatory in the abstract, also discriminates in the particular case in question?  (3) If the answer to [Question 2(b)] is in the affirmative: Does the fact that the spouse discriminated against consents to the divorce — including by duly accepting compensation — itself constitute a ground for not applying that rule?'
C-111/17 PPU OL v PQ [2017] ECLI:EU:C:2017:436	BIIbis Article 11(1)	'What is the appropriate interpretation of the concept of "habitual residence", within the meaning of Article 11(1) of [Regulation No 2201/2003], in the case of an infant who fortuitously or due to force majeure has been born in a place other than that which her parents with joint parental responsibility for the child intended to be the place of her habitual residence, and was then unlawfully retained by one parent in the State where she was born, or removed to a third State. More specifically, is physical presence a necessary and self-evident prerequisite, in all circumstances, for establishing the habitual	27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as meaning that, in a situation, such as that in the main proceedings, where a child has been born and has lived continuously with her mother for several months, in accordance with the joint wishes of her parents, in a Member State other than that where those parents were habitually resident before her birth,	link residence of a person, and in particular a newborn child?'	return of the mother, together with the child, to the latter Member State cannot allow the conclusion that that child was 'habitually resident' there, within the meaning of that regulation.  Consequently, in such a situation, the refusal of the mother to return to the latter Member State together with the child cannot be considered to be a 'wrongful removal or retention' of the child, within the meaning of Article 11(1).'

C-499/15 W and V v X [2017] ECLI:EU:C:2017:118	BIlbis Articles 8, 14	'In accordance with Articles 8 to 14 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, which Member State (the Republic of Lithuania or the Kingdom of the Netherlands) has jurisdiction to hear and determine an application for the changes to the place of residence, to the child maintenance amount and to the applicable contact arrangements in respect of the minor child, V, who is habitually resident in the Kingdom of the Netherlands?'	'Article 8 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, and Article 3 of Council Regulation (EC) No 4/2009 of 18 December 2008 on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of decisions and cooperation in matters relating to maintenance obligations, must be interpreted as meaning that, in a case such as that in the main proceedings, the courts of the Member State which made a decision that has become final concerning parental responsibility and maintenance obligations with regard to a minor child no longer have jurisdiction to decide on an application for variation of the provisions ordered in that decision, inasmuch as the habitual residence of the child is in another Member State. It is the courts of the Member State of habitual residence that have jurisdiction to decide on that application.'	link
C-335/17 Neli Valcheva v Georgios Babanarakis [2018] ECLI:EU:C:2018:359	BIlbis Articles 1(2)(a), 2(7), 2(10)	'Is the concept of "rights of access" used in Article 1(2)(a) and Article 2.10 of Regulation No 2201/2003 to be interpreted as encompassing not only access between the parents and the	'The concept of 'rights of access' referred to in Article 1(2)(a) and in Article 2.7 and 2.10 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial	link child but also the child's access to relatives other	matters and the matters of parental responsibility, than the parents, that is to say the grandparents?'	repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted as including rights of access of grandparents to their grandchildren.'

C-604/17 PM v AH BIIbis Articles 3, 8	9, Le règlement no 2201/2003 permet-il l'examen	'Le règlement (CE) no 2201/2003 du Conseil, du	link
[2018]   10, 12, 15	d'affaires concernant la responsabilité parentale,	27 novembre 2003, relatif à la compétence, la
ECLI:EU:C:2018:10	sans que soient réunies les conditions prévues	reconnaissance et l'exécution des décisions en aux articles 8 et 12 du règlement, par une	matière matrimoniale et en matière de juridiction d'un État membre qui est compétente	responsabilité parentale abrogeant le règlement pour examiner l'affaire de divorce en vertu de	(CE) no 1347/2000, doit être interprété en ce sens l'article 3 du règlement, lorsque le droit national	qu'une juridiction d'un État membre compétente de cet État membre oblige la juridiction à se	pour statuer, en vertu de l'article 3, paragraphe 1, prononcer d'office sur l'exercice des droits	sous b), de ce règlement, sur une demande en parentaux, sur des mesures concernant le droit	divorce entre deux époux ayant la nationalité de de visite, la pension alimentaire, ainsi que sur	cet État membre n'est pas compétente pour se l'utilisation du logement conjugal, en même	prononcer sur le droit de garde et le droit de visite temps que sur la demande de divorce ?'	à l'égard de l'enfant des époux lorsque celui-ci a, au moment où cette juridiction est saisie, sa résidence habituelle dans un autre État membre et que les conditions requises pour conférer cette compétence à ladite juridiction en vertu de l'article 12 dudit règlement ne sont pas remplies, compte tenu en outre du fait qu'il ne résulte pas non plus des circonstances de l'affaire au principal que cette compétence pourrait être fondée sur les articles 9, 10 ou 15 du même règlement. Par ailleurs, cette juridiction ne satisfait pas aux conditions prévues à l'article 3, sous d), du règlement (CE) no 4/2009 du Conseil, du 18 décembre 2008, relatif à la compétence, la loi applicable, la reconnaissance et l'exécution des décisions et la coopération en matière d'obligations alimentaires pour statuer sur la demande relative à la pension alimentaire.'

C-85/18 PPU CV v DU [2018] ECLI:EU:C:2018:220	BIlbis Articles 8, 10 and 13	"(a) Is the concept of habitual residence of the child, within the meaning of Article 8(1) of Regulation No 2201/2003, to be interpreted as meaning that such habitual residence corresponds to the place where the child has demonstrated some degree of integration into the social and family environment, irrespective of the fact that a ruling has been made in another Member State, after the child moved with his father to the territory of the State, where the minor has integrated into that social and family environment? If that is the case, should Article 13 of Regulation No 2201/2003, which determines jurisdiction based on the child's presence, be applied?  (2) Is the fact that the minor has the nationality of the Member State in which he lives with his father, in circumstances where his parents have Romanian nationality only, relevant for the purpose of determining habitual residence?'	No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, and Article 3 of Council Regulation (EC) No 4/2009 of 18 December 2008 on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of decisions and cooperation in matters relating to maintenance obligations, must be interpreted as meaning that, in a case such as that at issue in the main proceedings, in which a child who was habitually resident in a Member State was wrongfully removed by one of the parents to another Member State, the courts of that other Member State do not have jurisdiction to rule on an application relating to custody or the determination of a maintenance allowance with	link
C-375/18 PPU C.E v N.E [2018]	Information not available	Idem	Idem	link
C-393/18 PPU ED v. XB [2018] ECLI:EU:C:2018:835	BIlbis Article Article 8(1)	'(1) Is the physical presence of a child in a State an essential ingredient of habitual residence, within the meaning of Article 8 of [Regulation No 2201/2003]?  (2) In circumstances where both parents are holders of Parental Responsibility, does the fact that a mother has been tricked to go to another state and then unlawfully detained by coercion or other unlawful act in that state by the father, leading to the mother being forced to give birth to a child in that state, have any impact on the answer to [the first question] in circumstances	No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000, must be interpreted to the effect that a child must have been physically present in a Member State in order to be regarded as habitually resident in that Member State, for the purposes of that provision. Circumstances such as those in the main proceedings, assuming that they	link mother and/or child's human rights, pursuant to Articles 3 and 5 of the [Convention for the	father's coercion of the mother had the effect of her giving birth to their child in a third country where she has resided with that child ever since, and, secondly, the breach of the mother's or the child's rights, do not have any bearing in that regard.

--	---	---	--