Overview

In the vibrant heart of The Hague's embassy district, where international discourse shapes the future, discover a premier venue designed to amplify your message and foster meaningful connections.

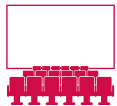

Whether you are seeking a professional office space to establish your base or distinguished conference rooms to host your most impactful events, the Asser Institute - the research centre for international and European law - provides the perfect environment. From high-level press conferences and transformative training programmes to flexible, long-term office solutions, our fully-equipped spaces offer the ideal backdrop for your professional success.

Elevate your global dialogue in the heart of The Hague's diplomatic hub

The Mandela

The Mandela is a fully-equipped auditorium that can comfortably accommodate up to 100 delegates, providing an environment of both sophistication and functionality. Named after Nelson Mandela (1918 - 2013), a lawyer, peacemaker, and icon for equality, this room serves as a space where lawyers, scholars, and policymakers engage in critical talks shaping global peace and justice. With our modern video conferencing system, hosting impactful conferences and creating engaging hybrid meetings becomes seamless.

The Mancini

Named after the Italian minister of Justice, and later the president of the Institute of International Law, Pasquale Stanislao Mancini (1817 - 1888), the Mancini Room is more than just a meeting space. With the ability to hold up to 25 delegates, this room offers a mix of functionality and privacy, allowing for the highest productivity. Furthermore, with our state-of-the-art video conferencing systems, organising private yet productive meetings and discussions becomes seamless.
