

National Legal Systems and Globalization

Pierre Larouche · Péter Cserne
Editors

National Legal Systems and Globalization

New Role, Continuing Relevance

T · M · C · A S S E R P R E S S

 Springer

Editors

Pierre Larouche
Tilburg Law School
Tilburg University
Tilburg
The Netherlands

Péter Cserne
Hull Law School
University of Hull
Hull
UK

ISBN 978-90-6704-884-2 ISBN 978-90-6704-885-9 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-90-6704-885-9

Library of Congress Control Number: 2012943640

© T.M.C. ASSER PRESS, The Hague, The Netherlands, and the author(s) 2013

Published by T.M.C. ASSER PRESS, The Hague, The Netherlands www.asserpress.nl
Produced and distributed for T.M.C. ASSER PRESS by Springer-Verlag Berlin Heidelberg

No part of this work may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, microfilming, recording or otherwise, without written permission from the Publisher, with the exception of any material supplied specifically for the purpose of being entered and executed on a computer system, for exclusive use by the purchaser of the work. The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

Printed on acid-free paper

Springer is part of Springer Science+Business Media (www.springer.com)

Preface

This book is the outcome of a research project which was conducted at the Tilburg Law and Economics Center (TILEC), a joint research centre of the Faculties of Law and of Economics and Business Administration of Tilburg University, between 2007 and 2011.

The project was commissioned and funded by the Hague Institute for Internationalisation of Law (HiiL), project number 100-16-503. We are very grateful to HiiL, and in particular to its Director Sam Muller and Deputy Director David Raic, for financial support and understanding throughout the duration of the project. Morly Frishman and Yordana Keremidchieva, both of HiiL, also provided help and support, for which the editors are thankful.

The project was directed by Pierre Larouche, Professor of Competition Law at Tilburg University. Initially, the project team included Filomena Chirico and Saskia Lavrijssen. After both moved on to positions outside of Tilburg University, Maartje de Visser joined the project. She also moved to another project, which led to Péter Cserne joining the team for the completion of the project. While these changes caused some delays in the research, they did enrich the overall result by broadening the range of experiences that went into the contributions. The members of the team were also able to count on much respected colleagues, such as Monica Claes, Eric van Damme or Leigh Hancher, as co-authors for some of the contributions. Finally, Angela Maria Noguera helped the team during her studies in Tilburg and produced an empirical contribution to the project as part of her masters' thesis. More details on the contributors are provided on the following pages.

Conducted within HiiL's general Research Programme, the project has analysed, in an interdisciplinary manner, how national legal systems cope with the challenges of globalisation. The research output of the project has already gained societal relevance by contributing to ongoing practical discussions, on the review and reform of European networks of national regulatory authorities (NRAs) and on the unification or harmonisation of private law in Europe, among others. Putting the individual contributions together in this collective volume, we hope to deliver added value by highlighting the synergies between the various contributions. We trust that the output of the project will further contribute to debates, both practical and academic, on the role of law in the global world.

Most chapters in this book have been previously published in different versions in academic journals or books. We are grateful to copyright holders for allowing the publication of new versions of the original published pieces. For the present publication, all those chapters have been revised. In some cases, we are able to publish, for the first time, complete versions of papers which, due to space limitations, had been previously published in abridged form.

Finally, we wish to thank all our colleagues who have attended seminars, workshop or conferences where the contributions to this book were presented in paper form, or who delivered comments to us.

Tilburg, Summer 2012

The Editors

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	Pierre Larouche and Péter Cserne
 Part I Convergence and Divergence: The Continuing Relevance of National Legal Systems
2	Convergence and Divergence, in Law and Economics and Comparative Law	9
	Filomena Chirico and Pierre Larouche
3	The Draft Common Frame of Reference (DCFR): A Giant with Feet of Clay	35
	Filomena Chirico, Eric van Damme and Pierre Larouche
4	The Recodification of Private Law in Central and Eastern Europe	45
	Péter Cserne
5	Courts and Expertise: Consequence-Based Arguments in Judicial Reasoning	89
	Péter Cserne
 Part II New Institutions, Common Principles
6	From a Formalistic to an Integrative Model: The Case of EU Economic Regulation	113
	Leigh Hancker and Pierre Larouche

7	The Reform of EU Electronic Communications Law: Revolution or Evolution?	155
	Maartje de Visser
8	Networks of Regulatory Agencies in Europe	183
	Saskia Lavrijssen and Leigh Hancher
9	Reinventing Accountability: Judicial Control Versus Participation	221
	Maartje de Visser
 Part III New Models for National Legal Systems in a Global World
10	Legal Emulation Between Regulatory Competition and Comparative Law	247
	Pierre Larouche
11	Impact Assessment: Theory	289
	Pierre Larouche
12	Impact Assessment: Empirical Evidence	311
	Angela Maria Noguera
13	Judicial Networks	345
	Maartje de Visser and Monica Claes
 Part IV Conclusions
14	Conclusions	371
	Pierre Larouche and Péter Cserne
	Index	385

Contributors

Filomena Chirico is an official at the European Commission, Directorate General Competition (DG COMP), filomena.chirico@ec.europa.eu. Her contributions reflect her views and not those of the European Commission. At the time of her contribution to the project, she was Assistant Professor, Department of International and European Public Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University, and a member of the Tilburg Law and Economics Centre (TILEC).

Monica Claes is Professor of European and Comparative Constitutional Law, Faculty of Law, Maastricht University, monica.claes@maastrichtuniversity.nl. At the time of her contribution to the project, she was Professor of European and Comparative Constitutional Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University.

Péter Cserne is Senior Lecturer, Hull Law School, University of Hull, p.cserne@hull.ac.uk. He contributed to the project while an Assistant Professor, Department of International and European Public Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University, and a member of TILEC.

Maartje de Visser is Assistant Professor, Department of International and European Law, Maastricht University, maartje.devissier@maastrichtuniversity.nl. At the time of her contribution to the project, she was Assistant Professor, Department of International and European Public Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University, and a member of TILEC.

Leigh Hancher is Professor of European Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University, and a member of TILEC, i.l.hancher@tilburguniversity.edu. Of Counsel, Allen & Overy.

Pierre Larouche is Professor of Competition Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University, and a founding director of TILEC, pierre.larouche@tilburguniversity.edu.

Saskia Lavrijssen is Professor of Consumer and Energy Law, Faculty of Law, University of Amsterdam, s.a.c.m.lavrijssen@uva.nl. At the time of her contribution to the project, she was Assistant Professor, Department of International and European Public Law, Tilburg Law School, Tilburg University, and the research coordinator of TILEC.

Angela Maria Noguera is an official at Superintendence of Industry and Commerce, the competition authority of Columbia. At the time of her contribution to the project, she was a student in the LL.M. in International Business Law, Tilburg University.

Eric van Damme is Professor of Economics, Tilburg School of Economics and Management, Tilburg University, and a founding director of TILEC, eric.vandamme@tilburguniversity.edu.