

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book is the expanded and updated version of the work I conducted while researching my Ph.D. at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva. I would therefore like to foremost thank Professor Andrew Clapham for his inspiration, support, and theoretical and practical help in the development of this book. I would also like to convey my gratitude for the helpful comments and suggestions of Professor Andrea Bianchi and Professor Paola Gaeta.

The final drafting and research phase for this book was made possible through the generous funding of the Swiss National Science Foundation, and I therefore extend my gratitude to them. Special thanks also to Professor John Dugard who allowed me to join the Leiden University Law Faculty as a research fellow in 2006-2007.

This book also benefited enormously from discussions with my fellow researchers Théo Boutruche, Biatrix Garcia, Divvy Rajagopalan-Vorburger, Deborah Ruiz-Verduzco and Els Debuf. In addition, I would like to thank Judge Christine Van den Wyngaert for reading an early version of the book, and Judge Mohamed Shahabuddeen for professional encouragement.

The research for this book was conducted primarily at the Graduate Institute of International Studies Library, Geneva, the United Nations Library in Geneva, the Library of the International Committee of the Red Cross, Geneva, Leiden University Law Faculty Library, Leiden, and the Peace Palace Library in The Hague. I would like to warmly thank the staff of all these libraries for their extensive and friendly help in finding books, articles and resources.

I am grateful to the T.M.C. Asser Press for their help and support throughout the publication process, and to the anonymous reviewers for providing useful comments and suggestions.

A huge thanks must go to my family for their forbearance, love and support throughout many years of completing this project. In particular, a heartfelt thank you to my husband, Joel Rache, whose unconditional love, support and remarkable resilience to stress I will always treasure.

The Hague, September 2009
