

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword	V
Preface & Acknowledgements	IX
List of Abbreviations	XV

Part I

THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE RIGHT TO COUNSEL IN INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS

Chapter I

INTRODUCTION

1.1	Safeguarding the Right to an Effective Defence	3
1.2	Appraising the Position of the Defence	3
1.3	Theoretical Framework	7
1.4	Scope	9
1.5	Central Research Questions	10
1.6	Methodology	10
1.7	Structure	11

Chapter II

THE RIGHT TO LEGAL ASSISTANCE

2.1	Introduction	13
2.2	Historical Background of the Right to Legal Assistance	15
2.2.1	The Common Law System	15
2.2.2	The Civil Law System	17
2.3	General Scope of Legal Assistance at International Criminal Courts	20
2.3.1	Legal Framework	20
2.3.2	Legal Representation during the Initial Stage of Proceedings	21
2.3.3	Legal Assistance during the (Pre-)Trial and Appeal Stages	23
2.3.4	Legal Aid System	28
2.3.5	List of Counsel	32
2.3.6	Legal Aid Compensation Schemes	33
2.4	Guaranteeing Competent Counsel	38
2.4.1	Introduction	38
2.4.2	Qualification Requirements for Counsel	40

2.4.3	Distinctions in Requirements	46
2.4.4	Qualification Requirements for Other Defence Team Members	47
2.4.5	Promoting Competent Representation	48
2.4.6	Addressing Incompetent Representation	49
2.5	The Right of an Accused to Legal Assistance of his own Choosing	52
2.5.1	Introduction	52
2.5.2	The Scope of the Right to Counsel of the Accused's Choice	53
2.5.3	Limitations to the Right to Choose Defence Counsel	55
2.5.4	Replacement of Counsel	59
2.5.5	Conclusion	63
2.6	Communication between the Accused and his Counsel	64
2.6.1	Introduction	64
2.6.2	Safeguarding the Privacy of Communications	65
2.6.3	Scope of the Right to Communicate with Counsel	67
2.6.4	The Privilege to Communicate in Private	69
2.7	Conclusion	71

Chapter III

ORGANISATIONAL STRUCTURES FOR THE DEFENCE

3.1	Introduction	75
3.2	Organising the Defence within the Court's Organisational Structure	76
3.2.1	Organisational Structure of International Criminal Courts	76
3.2.2	Responsibilities of the Registry and the President	78
3.2.3	Independent Defence Offices	82
3.2.4	Advisory Panels	87
3.3	Bar Associations	88
3.3.1	Introduction	88
3.3.2	Membership	91
3.3.3	Functions of Bar Associations	94
3.4	Conclusion	99

Part II

PROCEDURAL PERSPECTIVES

Chapter IV

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL PROCEDURE IN PERSPECTIVE

4.1	Introduction	103
4.2	Damaška's Policy-Implementing and Conflict-Solving Models	108
4.2.1	The Conflict-Solving Model	108
4.2.2	Defence Counsel in Conflict-Solving Proceedings	111
4.2.3	The Policy-Implementing Model	112

4.2.4	Defence Counsel in Policy-Implementing Proceedings	114
4.3	Context of International Criminal Tribunals and ICC	116
4.3.1	Applicability of Damaška's Models to International Criminal Justice	116
4.3.2	Goals of Justice of International Criminal Courts	118
4.3.3	Structure of Authority in the Context of International Criminal Justice	125
4.3.4	Nature of Proceedings of the ICTY, the ICTR and the ICC	132
4.3.4.1	Introduction	132
4.3.4.2	Conflict-Solving and Coordinate Features of International Criminal Procedure	133
4.3.4.3	Policy-Implementing and Hierarchical Features of International Criminal Procedure	143
4.4	Conclusion	147

Part III

THE ROLE OF DEFENCE COUNSEL IN INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL PRACTICE

Chapter V

THE PRINCIPLE OF EQUALITY OF ARMS

5.1	Introduction	153
5.2	General Scope of the Principle of Equality of Arms	155
5.3	Equality of Arms and the Proportionality of Resources and Facilities	157
5.3.1	Introduction	157
5.3.2	Procedural Approaches to Adequate Resources and Facilities	157
5.3.3	Material Differences between the Prosecution and the Defence	159
5.3.4	Conclusion	167
5.4	Disparities in Time and Number of Witnesses	168
5.5	State Cooperation and Access to Evidence	175
5.6	The Prosecution's Reliance on the Principle of Equality of Arms	180
5.7	Equality of Arms & Joinder	184
5.8	Conclusion	190

Chapter VI

REGULATION OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

6.1	Introduction	193
6.2	Codes of Professional Conduct	195
6.3	Standards of Professional Conduct	198
6.3.1	Introduction	198
6.3.2	Counsel's Professional Independence	201
6.3.3	Conflicts of Interest	203
6.3.4	Counsel's Duty of Confidentiality	209

6.3.5	Fee-splitting	212
6.4	Enforcement Mechanisms	216
6.4.1	Introduction	216
6.4.2	Disciplinary Proceedings Incorporated in Codes of Professional Conduct	217
6.4.3	Misconduct	223
6.4.4	Contempt of Court	226
6.4.5	Conclusion: Appropriate Disciplinary Enforcement Mechanisms	232
6.5	Collision between National and International Codes of Conduct	235
6.6	Conclusion	241

Chapter VII

ASSISTING AN ACCUSED WHO REPRESENTS HIMSELF

7.1	Introduction	245
7.2	Procedural Approaches to the Right to Self-Representation	246
7.3	An Effective Exercise of the Right to Self-Representation	247
7.4	Various Forms of Mandatory Legal Assistance	249
7.4.1	Introduction	249
7.4.2	Amici Curiae	249
7.4.3	Standby Counsel	252
7.4.5	Court Assigned Counsel	255
7.5	Conclusion	259

Chapter VIII

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATIONS

8.1	Introduction	263
8.2	An Adequate and Effective Defence in International Criminal Proceedings	264
8.3	The ad hoc Tribunals versus the ICC	276
8.4	Recommendations Improving the Defence in International Criminal Proceedings	277
8.5	Final Observations	279

Bibliography	281
– Literature	281
– Reports	291
– Miscellaneous	293
Table of Cases	295
Table of Legal Instruments	313
Index	319