Table of Contents

Preface \hspace{1em} V

Biographical Notes \hspace{1em} XIX

Abbreviations \hspace{1em} XX

Part I
Framework

I.1 Introduction \hspace{1em} 3

I.2 System and Standard of Social Services \hspace{1em} 4

I.3 The Position of Women in Society \hspace{1em} 5

I.4 Assessment and Significance of Family Planning and Termination of Pregnancy \hspace{1em} 7
  4.1 Preliminary remarks \hspace{1em} 7
  4.2 Sociopolitical and individual dimensions of family planning \hspace{1em} 7
  4.3 Governmental measures in the area of family planning \hspace{1em} 9
  4.4 The significance of the termination of pregnancy in relation to other methods of birth control \hspace{1em} 9
  4.5 Assessment of the termination of pregnancy from a religious perspective \hspace{1em} 10
    4.5.1 The Roman Catholic Church \hspace{1em} 11
    4.5.2 Protestant churches \hspace{1em} 12
    4.5.3 Other Christian churches \hspace{1em} 13
    4.5.4 Islam \hspace{1em} 13
    4.5.5 Judaism \hspace{1em} 13
    4.5.6 Hinduism \hspace{1em} 14
  4.6 The stance of the medical community regarding the termination of pregnancy \hspace{1em} 14
    4.6.1 Regulations on the termination of pregnancy in professional codes of ethics \hspace{1em} 15
    4.6.2 Other determinants of the legal position of the medical community \hspace{1em} 16
    4.6.3 Assessment \hspace{1em} 16

I.5 Remarks on Historical Developments \hspace{1em} 18
  5.1 ‘Abortion tourism’ \hspace{1em} 18
  5.2 On the significance of case law and criminal prosecution practice \hspace{1em} 19
  5.3 On the relative importance of demographic policy \hspace{1em} 20
Part II
Current Laws Regulating the Termination of Pregnancy

Introduction 25

II.1 Legal Sources and Regulatory Methodology Behind the Law on the Termination of Pregnancy 26
1.1 Regulatory scope: between criminal and social welfare law 26
1.2 Classification into categories of crime: from homicide to moral turpitude 27

II.2 Basic Concepts in Legal Regulation 29
Preliminary remarks 29
2.1 Legislative intent: from semi-official proclamations to diffuse speculations 29
2.2 Legal values: from the protection of individual life to general demographic policy and sexual ethics 30
2.3 Constitutional foundations: from apparent absence to binding guidelines for the legislature 34
2.3.1 Survey 36
2.3.2 Ranking in light of guidelines for the legislature 40
2.4 Basic regulatory models: from (virtually) absolute prohibition to (almost) complete permission 42
2.4.1 Regulatory diversity – criteria for classification 42
2.4.2 Classification 45
A. ‘Prohibition Model’ 46
B. Pure ‘Indication Model’ 46
C. Combined (successive) ‘time limit – indication models’ 49
D. Pure ‘time limit models’ 50
2.4.3 Comprehensive assessment: disregarding extremes leaves three distinct regulatory approaches 51
2.5 Concept of termination of pregnancy: fluid borders – terminological, substantive and temporal 57
2.5.1 Terminological evolution 58
2.5.2 Varying scope of substantive coverage: from intervention during the course of pregnancy to successful killing 59
2.5.3 The varying temporal range of termination: from conception to the end of the birth process 60

II.3 Permissible Termination of Pregnancy 69
Preliminary remarks 69
3.1 Overview of the essential prerequisites for and the varying scope of legal terminations 70
3.2 Indications 72
3.2.1 Significance and terminology 72
3.2.2 Recognized indications: from life-threatening risk to reduced standard of living 74
3.2.3 Particulars regarding the ‘medical’ and ‘medical-social’ indication 76
3.2.4 Particulars regarding the ‘eugenic’ indication 79
| 3.2.5 | Particulars regarding the ‘criminological’ indication | 81 |
| 3.2.6 | Particulars regarding the ‘social’ indication | 83 |
| 3.2.7 | Overview of ‘other’ grounds recognized for the termination of pregnancy |
| A. Termination grounds in the person of the pregnant woman | 87 |
| B. ‘Illegitimacy’ of the expected child | 87 |
| C. Unusual social factors | 87 |
| D. The pregnant woman’s status as a foreigner | 87 |
| 3.2.8 | Contraindications | 87 |
| 3.3 | Consent |
| 3.3.1 | Consent of the pregnant woman: significance – substitutability | 88 |
| 3.3.2 | Essential prerequisites of consent | 91 |
| 3.3.3 | Special problems associated with pregnant women who are underage and those with limited mental/psychological competence | 92 |
| 3.3.4 | Rights of the partner to participate in decisions on termination – involvement of the woman’s social milieu | 93 |
| 3.4 | Procedural prerequisites: counseling – third-party review |
| 3.4.1 | Trends | 96 |
| 3.4.2 | A closer look at third-party review and determination of indications | 97 |
| 3.4.3 | Individual aspects of counseling | 101 |
| 3.5 | Performance requirements: physician – hospital – procedures |
| 3.5.1 | Personnel and institutional requirements | 106 |
| 3.5.2 | Requirements concerning performance | 107 |
| 3.5.3 | Issues of control and sanctioning | 108 |
| 3.6 | Subsequent obligations: documentation – reporting – notification |
| 3.6.1 | Scope and goals | 109 |
| 3.6.2 | Varying degrees of confidentiality | 110 |
| 3.6.3 | Analysis | 111 |
| 3.7 | The legal nature of exemptions of terminations from punishment |
| 3.7.1 | Disparate levels of discussion: from disputes regarding constitutionality to indifference | 112 |
| 3.7.2 | Express declarations of permissibility | 114 |
| 3.7.3 | Regulations that differentiate | 116 |
| 3.7.4 | Prohibition and permission in the sense of rule and exception | 117 |
| 3.8 | Legal claims of the pregnant woman |
| 3.8.1 | Claim to the performance of a permissible termination |
| A. Claims when a medical indication is present | 119 |
| B. Area of application of more broadly defined indications as well as of time-bound exemptions from punishment | 120 |
| C. Other narrowly defined indications | 121 |
| D. Limitations applying to foreign women | 122 |
| 3.8.2 | Compensation for the costs of termination |
| A. Survey | 123 |
| a) Medical indication as the sole ground for permissible termination | 124 |
Table of Contents

b) Models with a more broadly defined scope of permissibility

- B. Comparative observations
  - 3.9 The right of medical personnel to refuse to participate in the termination procedure
    - 3.9.1 Concrete scope
    - 3.9.2 Scope of applicability with regard to ‘persons’
    - 3.9.3 Procedural rules governing the exercise of the right to refuse

II.4 Impermissible Termination of Pregnancy

- Preliminary remarks
  - 4.1 The structure of the criminal offense: from the uniform model to the tripartite model and beyond
  - 4.2 Modes of commission: from an all-encompassing approach to special preparatory, participatory and other related offenses
    - 4.2.1 Modes of commission and instruments used to commit the offense
    - 4.2.2 Attempted termination of pregnancy
    - 4.2.3 Parties to the termination of pregnancy
    - 4.2.4 Supplementary crimes of preparation, participation and other related offenses
  - 4.3 Legal consequences of a punishable termination of pregnancy: from fines to life imprisonment
    - 4.3.1 General categories
    - 4.3.2 Special grounds for reducing and enhancing punishment
  - 4.4 Termination of pregnancy and international criminal law
    - 4.4.1 Reasons why women go abroad to terminate their pregnancies
    - 4.4.2 Principles of jurisdiction: from (limited) territorial application to an (extended) extraterritorial approach
    - 4.4.3 Discrepancies between the punishability of termination at home and abroad
    - 4.4.4 Limiting rules and procedural requirements
    - 4.4.5 Summary

II.5 Special Role of the Physician

- 5.1 Requirement that terminations of pregnancy be performed by physicians
- 5.2 Functions of physicians in preliminary proceedings
  - 5.2.1 Functions of the physician in preliminary proceedings
  - 5.2.2 Division of responsibility between the preliminary and the performing stages
- 5.3 Rules covering performance of terminations of pregnancy
- 5.4 Special criminal provisions and sanctions pertaining to physicians
  - 5.4.1 Sanctions related to the performance of terminations
  - 5.4.2 Criminal sanctions with respect to ‘preliminary procedure’
    - A. In cases of exemptions from punishment based on some sort of indication
    - B. In cases of exemptions from punishment based on time limits
    - C. Criminal provisions applicable to more than one model
5.4.3 Other criminal sanctions 163
5.4.4 Disciplinary and professional sanctions applicable to the termination of pregnancy 163

II.6 Preventive Measures 164
6.1 Additional criminal offenses 164
6.1.1 Independent preparatory and preliminary offenses 164
6.1.2 Prohibitions against advertising and dissemination of information 165
6.2 Government services 166
6.2.1 Legislative intent 166
6.2.2 Individual measures 167

II.7 Role of Termination of Pregnancy in the Prosecutorial Arena 171
7.1 Duty to report terminations of pregnancy already committed 171
7.2 Duty to report planned illegal terminations 172
7.3 Special rules on the statute of limitations 173
7.4 Special rules for prosecuting cases of illegal termination 173
7.4.1 Prosecutorial discretion 173
7.4.2 Features peculiar to the criminal process 174

Part III
Statistical Information

Introduction 177

III.1 Termination Statistics 178
1.1 State of the data 178
1.2 Comparative prevalence of terminations of pregnancy 179
1.2.1 Frequency of the termination of pregnancy in various countries 179
1.2.2 Comparison in the relationship to the respective regulatory model and counseling system 180
1.2.3 Developments in the number of terminations over time 181
1.3 Considerations regarding possible variables 182

III.2 Crime Statistics 185
2.1 State of the data 185
2.2 Comparison and evaluation 185

III.3 Judicial Statistics and Trends in Prosecution 187
3.1 State of the data 187
3.2 Comparison and evaluation 187
Part IV

Concluding Reflections from a Legal Policy Perspective

Preliminary Remarks 205

IV.1 Review: Findings – Insights – Trends 207

1.1 Ideological prejudices 207

1.2 The reality of the termination of pregnancy 209

1.2.1 Termination of pregnancy: an ancient and worldwide phenomenon 209

1.2.2 Frequency of termination and prosecutorial practice 210

1.2.3 Attitudes towards contraception and termination 212

1.2.4 Reform-inducing factors 215

1.2.5 Effects of the (West) German reform of 1975 217

1.3 On the ways of regulating the termination of pregnancy 218

1.3.1 Variety of regulatory approaches 218

1.3.2 The interdependence of regulatory diversity and social mores 222

1.3.3 Model-building criteria 223

1.3.4 ‘Medicalization’ – ‘proceduralization’ ‘socialization’ 228

1.4 On the role of criminal law – other leading factors 231

1.4.1 Irrelevance of criminal law? 231

1.4.2 Prevalence of psychosocial and socioethical factors? 237

1.4.3 Determining conduct by means of proceedings? 241

IV.2 Outlook: Starting Points – Guidelines 244

2.1 Regulatory maxims 244

2.1.1 Clarity with regard to the regulatory goal and normative preconditions 244

2.1.2 Norm-consciousness and social acceptance 247

2.1.3 Transparence and consistence of the conduct-determining message 252

2.2 Protected values and conflicting interests 255

2.2.1 Plurality of rights and interests 256

2.2.2 Relative nature of the protection of life 259

2.2.3 The pregnant woman: autonomous yet bound by an obligatory weighing-up process 267

2.2.4 Status-specific responsibilities 270

2.3 Protection and legitimation through procedure 276

2.3.1 Emergency indication: from third party evaluation to discourse 277

2.3.2 Prevention through counseling 285

2.3.3 Lawful termination of pregnancy 291

IV.3 A Proposed Regulation 295

Preliminary remarks 295

3.1 Maxims and guiding principles 296

3.2 Proposal of a law to regulate the termination of pregnancy 300
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TABLE OF CONTENTS</th>
<th>XVII</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Appendix A: Country Reports</td>
<td>309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Appendix B: Publications</td>
<td>311</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>319</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>